Calling All Men and Women In Uncle Sam's Service . . . See Page One

Last fall these Teachers College men sat on the Commons balcony, looking into the future . . . This fall the future is the present, and service to their country is paramount in their minds . . . Jack Hoyt, John Denny, and Forest Hanifan are the men. Hoyt is still in college, Denny is in the Army Enlisted Reserve Corps, Hanifan is flying for Uncle Sam.

Alumni Man Uncle Sam's Battle Fronts

STURDY ALUMNI OF THE IOWA STATE TEACHERS COLLEGE, who have answered Uncle Sam's call to service, are keeping the faith of freedom, democracy, and the life we all love. They're to be found in all corners of the earth . . . Australia, England, Alaska, India, Egypt . . . and in all branches of the service . . . in the air, on the sea, and in mighty land forces.

Like millions of fellow Yanks and hard-fighting allies, they are instilled with the will to win. They're manning the first line of the battle front, safe-guarding the future for millions of democracy-loving people throughout the world.

Alumni, former students, undergraduates, and faculty members are all in the fight for victory. The women are playing their part too, serving as nurses, U.S.O. directors, officers and privates in the W.A.A.C. Side by side in spirit, and as anxious to help as men in the front line, are the folks back on the home front.

THE ALUMNUS is endeavoring to gather information regarding men and women serving their country for a directory, to be compiled by the Bureau of Alumni Service. We want to know the name and branch of service of every alumnus, former student, and faculty member who is taking part in the fight for freedom. This will include men and women, who are in either the armed forces or defense positions.

DO YOUR PART by using the enclosed postage-free return card. Send as complete information as you have available . . . tell us about yourself or your friends . . . and do it now.

Typifying the indomitable will to victory, which marks the spirit of a true Yankee, is Lt. Walter E. Brown, B.A. '38, who is shown on the cover as he comes "over the top" with the Browning automatic rifle. He is shown demonstrating the assault position for the Browning rifle, which can be fired from the hip while walking or running. Lieutenant Brown is now an instructor at the Infantry School at Fort Benning, Ga.

From a $21 a month selectee to first lieutenant, in the short space of 13 months, is the rapid rise made by the TEACHERS COLLEGE alumnus. He went to Camp Roberts, Calif., for basic training, remained there for a short period to train new recruits, and then came to Fort Benning as an officer candidate. Upon graduation last February 27, he was assigned as instructor in the automatic rifle, grenade and bayonet with the school, and on July 16, became a first lieutenant.

Lieutenant Brown played three years of varsity football for his alma mater, and later coached at Holstein and Newton, Iowa. He was married June 10, 1942, to Gwendolyn McCague, B.A. '37. The couple live at 629 20th St., Columbus, Ga.

On the navy side of the ledger is the service of Harland Riebe, B.A. '41, now a chief specialist in athletics at the Naval Training Station at Newport, R. I. He is instilling into the recruits in training some of the unconquerable courage and skill of the "Mighty Midgets" who won the North Central Conference football championship in 1940 and again in 1941.

Chief Riebe is helping to produce physically fit man-o-war's men for America's "Fighting Fleet."

Like many another service man, his day is a long one—from reveille at 5 a.m. to 10 p.m. And on every third night he is on watch and stays on the base all night. "We get one 24-hour liberty every 12 days, and wonder why some civilians gripe about over-time work," he writes.

Chief Riebe lists the favorite wishes of all Navy men as follows:

1. That somebody would shoot the bugler so you could over-sleep. (Chief Petty Officers have to get up too.)
2. To get off the base and get a good cup of coffee. (Navy chow is good, but the coffee . . . oh boy, not like that at home!)
3. That we could be someplace besides where you are. (That is true no matter where you are at present.)
4. That we could get a crack at those Japs. (Morale is high from the lowest boot—short for sailor—to the Captain.)

Dave McCuskey, B.S. '30, coach of mighty Tutor wrestling teams, is the first member of the Teachers College coaching staff to be called for service with the armed forces.

He has been commissioned a lieutenant (junior grade) in the United States Naval Reserve. He reported at Chapel Hill, N. Car., home of the state university, August 27, for an intensive instructional course before being assigned to a pre-flight school, such as that located at the University of Iowa.

When Lieutenant McCuskey receives his permanent station, he will be joined by his wife, the former Gilma Lande, Comm. '28, and two sons, John, 6, and David, 3.

Hospital apprentice class, second class, is Don Henry, student '40-'41, recently made senior corpsman on the Naval Hospital staff at Mare Island, Calif. He received his preliminary training at the Great Lakes, Ill., Training Station. He was formerly head cheer leader at Teachers College.

Pvt. Emil W. Bock, for three years a member of the music faculty, is now taking his basic training in the Field Artillery Replacement Center of Fort Sill, Okla. He has been learning about radio work in Battery D, 32nd Battalion, Replacement Center, since entering the service late in June.

At Fort Sill he has appeared several times as featured soloist on various concert and entertainment programs, and has contributed to entertainment for soldiers at the Replacement Training Center.

Teachers College women are doing their part, too, in their country's defense. Three alumnae were accepted for officer training in the Women's Army Auxiliary Corps.

Christie Tollefson, B.A. '27, was commissioned a third officer and assigned to recruiting office duty following her graduation from Fort Des Moines. She formerly taught dramatics in Marion, N. J., but found the WAAC officer training "more strenuous and thrilling than the dress rehearsals of a play."

Pauline McNally, B.A. '36, a member of the Waterloo public library staff, reported for officer training at Fort Des Moines during the summer. She was followed by Elaine Holman, B.A. '36, another officer candidate, who reported September 14. Miss Holman taught at Council Bluffs last year and at Cedar Falls for five years previously.

Also on leave of absence for the duration is Robert S. McGranahan, sports assistant in the Bureau of Publications. He served as sports editor for THE ALUMNUS and handled sports publicity for Teachers College.

Cheering the Mighty Midgets . . .

THE "MIGHTY MIDGET" PANTHERS will go out on the gridiron this fall in quest of their third consecutive conference title . . . Cheering them on to victory will be the squad of varsity cheerleaders and hundreds of students and alumni pepsters . . .

Four home games have been scheduled—with Homecoming, October 24, the highlight of the season. On that day Coach Buck Starbeck's midgets face the Morningside Maroons . . .

Visiting dads will be honored at Dad's Day, November 7, the date for the Drake-Teachers College contest. The Panthers will be seeking revenge for their defeat at the hands of the bulldog last fall in Des Moines . . .

We're On the Air . . .

IN CASE YOU HAVEN'T HEARD, TEACHERS COLLEGE is now on the air—every day, except Sunday, over KXEL, the new 50,000-watt Waterloo radio station . . . Located at the top of the dial, 1540 kilocycles, and operating on a clear channel, the station broadcasts a half-hour program from the TEACHERS COLLEGE campus studios . . .

Herbert V. Hake, assistant professor of speech, is program director . . . For pictures and more complete news of the Teachers College of the Air, turn to page sixteen of this issue of THE ALUMNUS . . .

Planning Alumni Dinner . . .

AS WE GO TO PRESS word comes that the Iowa State Teachers Association annual convention will be limited to Delegate Assembly Sessions of Thursday afternoon and Saturday forenoon, November 5 to 7, 1942.

However, there will in all probability be many Iowa State Teachers alumni and friends in Des Moines Friday evening, November 6, who will be interested to join in a dinner gathering at Younker's Tea Room. Be on the alert for announcement at Des Moines.

A More Glamorous Commons . . .

WHEN HOMECOMERS VISIT THE CAMPUS in October, they will be glad to see the new, more glamorous Commons. The recreation center for TEACHERS COLLEGE was redecorated during the Homecoming fans are expected in full force, October 24, when the "Mighty Midgets" meet the powerful Morningside Maroons in a lively football contest. Game time is 2:00 p.m. at O. R. Latham Field.

Remember the Day, Homecoming, Oct. 24

THE TRADITIONAL COLLEGE REUNION DAY, HOMECOMING, when all good TEACHERS COLLEGE alumni get together, will be October 24, 1942.

Plans are now underway for a celebration in keeping with the times. This year's program may be less elaborate than usual, but the same hospitality will prevail on College Hill. Due to war-time problems, the crowd may be smaller. Many staunch Panther supporters now in Uncle Sam's service will be cheering from far away, and many will not be able to attend because of transportation problems.

Highlight of the day will, as usual be the football game, when the title-defending Panthers will meet Morningside College at 2:00 p. m. on the O. R. Latham Field. The Panthers have won the North Central Conference championship for the last two years, and will be doing their best to make it three in a row this year.

On the eve of the great contest, students, alumni and townspeople will give the team a rousing send-off at the Homecoming pep meeting. There will be music, cheers for Coach Buck Starbeck's "mighty midgets," and short "pep talks" . . . an all-out effort for victory on the grid-iron.

Another Homecoming highlight will be the presentation of the fall quarter I-Queen at half-time Saturday afternoon.

Plans are also underway to present the new Teachers College Service Flag, dedicated to all alumni now engaged in their country's defense. Alumni are asked to fill out the reply card enclosed with this issue of THE ALUMNUS, so that the College may compile a complete service directory.

Dormitory and Greek letter organizations will vie for honors in the traditional Homecoming decorations contest, each trying to outdo the other. War priorities will make this year's display more modest and timely.

Tentative plans call for the Homecoming dance in the Commons, Saturday night, special church services and religious forum on Sunday, and a Leisure Hour music recital in the Commons on Sunday afternoon.

Last year's I-Queen arrives on the O. R. Latham Field, and is presented by Gov. George A. Wilson and President Malcolm Price . . . Having fun are the Homecoming decorators . . . The float was in last year's parade.

summer months, and new, modernistic color schemes are the theme of the campus center.

Even the current crop of students was pleasantly surprised to see the new beauty of the Commons . . . The building had its gala re-opening at the end of the summer session, when an all-college farewell party was held . . . Variety shows, games, dancing, and bridge were on the entertainment menu. . .

The mezzanine has been re-decorated, and the furniture re-upholstered. The upstairs lounge is now divided into three sections—one for playing cards, another for reading and listening to the radio, and the third for exhibits. All work was done under the direction of Decorator Florence Weaver of Des Moines.

The artist in charge of the redecorating was Romolo Roberti, a well-known Italian artist, who is a member of the Chicago Art Institute.

Highlight of the "new" Commons is the recreational hall, with its chartreuse walls and borders of blue and turquoise. Eye-catching are the new draperies, which contain many shades of blue, ranging from a light blue to ink blue . . .

A New Recording Room . . .

TEACHERS COLLEGE STUDENTS WILL HAVE the facilities of a new recording room available for them this fall, . . . The speech clinic will be located in room 39, Auditorium Building, and will replace the one now being used for the KXEL studios . . .

The room will be sound conditioned by the use of hollow tile made of cornstalk board. It will be divided into small rooms, one for the equipment and recording, and one for keeping records on file. Present plans allow for installation later of sound conditioned practice booths for speech correction. Students will be able to practice speech exercises without interfering with others wishing to make recordings . . .

The speech correction program is under the direction of E. H. Henrikson, associate professor of speech. Dr. Henrikson and his classes appear in broadcasts over KXEL.

"Mighty Midgets" March to Title Defense

By Donald Hackett, Class of '45

THE "MIGHTY MIDGETS" HAVE answered the call to defense of their North Central Conference title, and under Coach Clyde L. "Buck" Starbeck's direction, they'll be ready to give Panther followers plenty of action this fall.

More than 40 pigskin candidates greeted headman "Buck" and assistant Oliver L. "Hon" Nordly in early practice sessions in September. Among them were 15 lettermen and four other squad members of last year's championship team.

The Panthers play a seven-game schedule this fall, and will be doing their best to make it three in a row as far as the championship is concerned. Highlight of the season will be the contest with Morningside, October 24, Homecoming Day.

With the exception of the center and quarterback positions, which rugged Bob Hunt and Charlie Pastorino left vacant, Coach Starbeck ran opening signal drills with a lineup which started several games last fall.

All-conference Cy Bellock and lanky Bob Cutshall manned the ends, supported by two other lettermen, Woody Christianson and Nick Avelchas. At the tackle slots were Leon "Champ" Martin and all-conference Don Barnhart, 400 pounds plus of hard to move linemen. Also on hand was 220 pounder James Maas, a possessor of two monograms, who will alternate at the tackle position.

Aaron Linn, rated as the finest guard in the conference last year, was back at his old job of calling signals at that slot, supported by Dick Bowen, who played a lot of guard for the Panthers in '41.

While the center slot is void of veterans, Norman White, rated as a fine center on last year's frosh crew, may do a capable job of filling Hunt's shoes, backed up by sophomore Russell Thorpe.

In the backfield, five lettermen have returned to the squad, headed by Eugene "Curly" Steinkamp, a hard running back and glue-fingered pass snatcher, and Gene Goodwillie, one of the shiftiest ball-carriers who ever set a cleat on the turf. They are capably assisted by shifty Ed Wittman and two plunging backs, Bob Hadenfeldt and Lloyd Miller.

The Panthers defend their title

Fourteen freshmen hopefuls, now eligible under wartime conference regulations, and several veteran reserves fill out the squad list. Among them are some boys who may relieve the regulars of their jobs by the end of the season which begins September 26 on the home lot.

The Tutors will play host to South Dakota State in their opening contest as they go on the prowl for another conference title. Homecoming, on October 24, will pit the Panthers against Morningside, the team they must defeat to retain their conference title, according to the dopesters. The Maroons are figured to give the Panthers a rough tussle, but the local squad will have the advantage of their home lot.

Two other home games follow in succession to wind up the home stand. Most eagerly awaited of all is the contest with Drake on November 7, when the Panthers hope to reverse the stinging 13-0 setback of last season, as they outplayed the Des Moines school but fell shy of victory.

The complete roster of players:

ENDS—Nick Avelchas, Waterloo, Iowa; Cyril Bellock, River Forest, Ill.; Al Benedetti, Naperville, Ill.; Woody Christianson, Avoca, Iowa; Bob Cutshall, Cedar Falls, Iowa; Kenneth Griffin, Jamestown, N. Dak.; Loren Hagge, Red Wing, Minn.; Bill Otterman, Traer, Iowa.

TACKLES—Don Barnhart, Dixon, Ill.; Jack Hoyt, Des Moines, Iowa; Dale Martin, Hawarden, Iowa; Leon Martin, Eagle Grove, Iowa; Dale Ott, Hartley, Iowa.

GUARDS—Dick Bowen, Cedar Falls, Iowa;

The Outlook for Basketball . . .

ALTHOUGH IT IS TOO EARLY to accurately survey the outlook for basketball, mentor Oliver Nordly is relying on the juniors which last season copped four starting berths. Only versatile Bob Hunt and Jack Lansing were lost via graduation, and five lettermen are scheduled to return. They are Warren Duncker, Harry McFarlane, Delbert Mully, Dick Seidler, and Bob Titsworth.

When combined with last year's undefeated frosh squad and the present freshman standouts, there should be plenty of action ahead.

Introducing Director Herbert V. Hake . . .

"THE IOWA STATE TEACHERS COLLEGE OF THE AIR." . . . These are the words you will hear every afternoon at 1:30, as Herbert V. Hake introduces the daily programs of Iowa's teacher training center over KXEL, the new 50,000-watt clear-channel "voice of agriculture" in Waterloo.

Thirty minutes fly by, as students and faculty join voices in extending the educational service of TEACHERS COLLEGE to thousands of midwestern listeners, who tune in 1540 on their dials, daily except Sunday, from 1:30 to 2:00 p.m. The rest of the TEACHERS COLLEGE family, including thousands of alumni, can keep in day-to-day contact with what their alma mater is doing in education, science, and the arts.

Since the new station, operated by Joe Dumond, creator of the famed "Josh Higgins," operates under the maximum power, 50,000 watts, the new College of the Air is host to thousands of midwestern listeners. The new radio facilities thus enable TEACHERS COLLEGE to extend its educational service to an even greater area.

Coordinator of the broadcasting program is Mr. Hake, assistant professor of speech, who works under the supervision of the faculty radio committee, of which Irving H. Hart, director of the extension service, is chairman.

Even the "kiddies" have special programs set aside for them, as members of Miss Amy Arey's classes in story telling practice what they have been learning. Much appreciated are their efforts, as the following "fan letter" from four-year-old Donald Robinson testifies:

"Dear Herb: I liked the duck story. Have some more stories. I'm going right to sleep after lunch next time so that I can wake up in time to hear all of the stories." . . .

Every day is listening day at TEACHERS COLLEGE—all except Sundays. Mondays are set aside for music, with concerts and recitals by students and faculty artists. On Wednesdays listeners will hear programs of the English Department—radio dramatizations, reviews of the latest novels, poetry and discussions on literature. News about the latest happenings on College Hill is presented every Thursday.

Alumni have a chance to hear their former instructors talk over educational problems of the day in the weekly series of "Faculty Forums," presented on Friday afternoons. Typical topics are these: "Inborn Abilities in Art," "Teaching Democracy in the Home," "School Code Revision," "Health Education in Iowa Schools," and "Literature Versus History as an Interpretation of Life."

In between times, listeners will hear a variety of programs. One day the program may be "Boys Invade the Kitchen," a practical demonstration in home economics for the stronger sex, a project of Miss Rose Hansen's class at the Campus

School. Another day they may hear a discussion of "Schools to Match Our Children," by Mary Caldwell of the Campus School, or a program of organ music.

"Our aim is to present programs typical of the finest educational services offered by Teachers College," Mr. Hake said. "At the same time we want to present programs of popular appeal for our listeners."

The broadcasts originate from the "modern as tomorrow" radio studios of TEACHERS COLLEGE on the top floor of the Auditorium Building. With walls of acoustical tile, the studios are completely soundproof and contain the latest in furnishings and equipment.

The broadcasts are carried by leased wire to Waterloo and then to the station's transmitter at Dysart. All broadcasting and control facilities have been installed in the control room.

A large studio, studio A, has been provided for concerts, dramatic groups, and programs with large casts. The large studio is furnished with a grand piano, tables and chairs of light ash, and a complete set of sound effects for dramatic presentations. A shielded cable to the Auditorium permits the broadcasting of orchestra and organ concerts.

A small studio, Studio B, has been arranged for round table discussions, interviews, and talks. Studio B is provided with the official "round table" of the college studio.

The control room is equipped with a collins console handling four microphones, phonograph transcriptions and remote control broadcasts from as many as six other buildings on the campus. It is also equipped with a Presto double-turn-table which will permit recording of complete half-hour broadcasts or the transmission of sound effects and recorded music for dramatic programs.

Monthly program schedules for "The College of the Air" are now available to school superintendents, music and speech instructors, and also to alumni throughout the midwest. Five thousand copies are issued monthly. The attractive folder, which carries an air view of the campus on its cover, is prepared by the Bureau of Publications.

Members of the radio committee, which serve as a planning board and policy-making group, are: Mr. Hart, chairman, Dr. Edward Kurtz, head of the music department, Dr. H. Willard Reninger, head of the English Department, and Dr. Guy Wagner, head of the teaching department.

New Students Show Increase

THERE WERE MORE NEW students on College Hill this fall than last, as registration figures reached 1,362. This represents a decrease of 100 from the fall term of 1941 at TEACHERS COLLEGE, with the expected drop in upper-classmen. Men students totalled 424, and women students totalled 938.

The actual gain of new students together with only a seven per cent decrease in total figures gave a far better enrollment than had been expected. In view of the great numbers of college students being drawn into defense industries and the war effort generally, a much greater decrease had been anticipated.

In World War I there was a drop of 450 students in the fall term following entrance of this country into the conflict, and a drop of 250 in the summer, whereas campus enrollment held up during the summer term and the fall term showed only a seven per cent decrease.

Greatest increase was among freshman women students with 475 registering as opposed to 417 last year. There were only 14 fewer first-year men students than a year ago, whereas there were 58 more new women students who enrolled at the college this year.

War and defense employment made greatest inroads among upperclassmen with 62 men and 82 women failing to return for a net loss of 144 former students. This, balanced with the net gain of 44 new students, gave a total drop of 100 as opposed to last year. Although there were 76 fewer men and 24 less women than a year ago.

The fall quarter ends November 25, with registration for the winter quarter beginning Monday, November 30.

Miss Groom Marries

Reherda Groom, R. N., and E. E. Cole, superintendent of Buildings and Grounds at Iowa State Teachers College, were married at the Little Brown Church in Nashua, on August 21, 1942. After a brief trip into Minnesota, the couple returned to live in their campus home at 1012 West 23rd St. Prior to her marriage, Mrs. Cole was supervisor of the TEACHERS COLLEGE hospital.

Pioneering in Ecuador . . .

AN EDUCATIONAL PIONEER in South American education is Ruth Popejoy, J. C. '22, who went to Ecuador in 1929. There was no American or English school there at that time, and it was her task to begin and carry on a school for the children of missionaries.

She is now the director of the School for Missionaries' Children at Quito. The school originally contained only the first eight grades, but in more recent years a high school department has been added.

Miss Popejoy has brought to Ecuador the most modern in educational methods, and last year she began the monthly publication of "The Magazine of the Air." The Pioneer Missionary Broadcaster, with its station HCJB, is located near the school, and now her school children are heard round the world. They have received fan mail from Alaska, England, and India, as well as from the states. The station operates on 24.8 meters or 12½ megacycles. They have received fan mail from England, Alaska, India, and nearly every country of the world. They receive many letters from the states and South and Central America.

The radio program is written entirely by the children and is made up of poems, plays, stories, words and music for songs, and news items of interest to their parents who are scattered throughout Ecuador.

The parents of the children live and work among the Indians of the jungles and mountains.

Miss Popejoy remembers with gratitude the training she received at TEACHERS COLLEGE and also the years she spent in the Campus School before entering college.

She would like to hear from any alumni who are interested in the radio programs and to receive questions and suggestions. She is anxious to have contacts with other alumni, since she knows no other graduates who are located in the South American country. Her address: School for Missionaries' Children, Casilla 137, Quito, Ecuador.

Flying for Uncle Sam . . .

UNCLE SAM'S FLYING HEROES OF TOMORROW are receiving their basic training at TEACHERS COLLEGE as they enroll in the Civilian Pilot Training program given by the army and navy. For eight weeks the men follow a strict regime of studying ground and flight courses in preparation for hours in the air for their country.

The course is part of the accelerated army and navy program for national defense, and differs from earlier C.P.T. courses in that under the new plan men are enlisted in the army air corps reserve and the naval air corps reserve. Ground school instruction is by members of the TEACHERS COLLEGE faculty, and flight instruction by Livingston Airways in Waterloo.

Both army and navy fliers receive the same preliminary course of study. Ten army men and five future navy aviators started the September course. The new course is offered every eight weeks.

The fliers are looking ahead to specialized careers in aviation. Upon completion of the preliminary program, they may be sent to a secondary C.P.T. school or to some branch of the army or navy air corps.

The day's work of a typical C.P.T. pilot begins early—about 5:30 a.m. Physical conditioning lasts from 6:15 to 7:30 a.m., followed by breakfast at 7:35 a.m. They leave by bus for the airport at 8 a.m., where they spend the day in flight work. They have a half hour off for lunch, and leave at 4:15 p.m. for Cedar Falls. They arrive in time for another lecture, from 5 to 6 p.m., and then comes the dinner hour, from 6 to 7. The evening hours, from 7 to 10 p.m., pass quickly, since they are filled with more lectures in the subjects Uncle Sam's fighting pilots must know thoroughly.

The pilots receive 240 hours in lecture work and must have 35 hours of actual flight work. Ground courses are offered in meteorology, physics, navigation, mathematics, civil air regulations, military science, radio code, identification of aircraft, physical training and conditioning.

Remembering Pearl Harbor . . .

MARIAN G. WALLACE, Pri. '17, remembers Pearl Harbor . . . because she was there when the Japanese struck their first blow, December 7, 1941 . . . It was a beautiful, peaceful morning until 7:55 a. m., she writes. Then the first bomb was dropped.

Barbed wire and fortifications became part of the scenery, blackouts became regular routine, and doing without fresh fruits, meat and butter at times was something new.

Miss Wallace received her B. E. degree from the University of Hawaii in 1938, and is now a primary teacher in Wahiawa, Oahu. Her address: Box 752, Wahiawa, Oahu, Territory of Hawaii.

When Miss Wallace wrote to THE ALUMNUS in June, she planned to stay on in public school work as long as she was needed and until "the street lights shine again."

Induct Men on Campus

Men at TEACHERS COLLEGE interested in entering the army, navy and marine reserves will take part in induction services on the campus, on or about November 16. Dr. H. A. Riebe, professor of education, is the military adviser of students.

Officers of the three services branches will be in Cedar Falls to induct new members, so that the men will not have to interrupt their class work to make a special trip to Des Moines.

Special programs are open to freshmen and sophomores desiring to become candidates for officer training.
